

HPT Model

IT 7320, Spring 2005

Tim Boileau

May 31, 2005

---

The model is systemic in that it recognizes the relationship between work, worker, and workplace at its core.

The classification for the model is holistic, allowing the appropriate toolset to be applied based upon the information available (performance analysis, cause analysis, intervention selection, intervention implementation).

The model is systematic in application of the different levels of evaluation for each phase. In addition, a second level of detail exists for each phase, allowing an iterative approach, based upon feedback received.

